The Role of the Historical Novel in Lukács's Thought

Lukács believed that the historical novel embodied the dialectical process of history and society. It was a form capable of capturing the totality of social relations, revealing the struggle of individuals within their historical contexts. For Lukács, the historical novel was a means of achieving verisimilitude—a realistic portrayal of social realities—while also engaging readers in a dialectical process of understanding societal change.

The Key Features of the Historical Novel According to Lukács

- Representation of Social Totality

Lukács emphasized that the historical novel must depict the totality of social life. This means integrating various social classes, institutions, and ideologies into a coherent narrative that reflects the complexity of history.
