Understanding the Context: Christian de Chergé and the Cistercian

Tradition

The Cistercians, a reform branch of the Benedictine order founded in 1098, emphasize austerity, simplicity, and a deep commitment to prayer and manual work. Their spiritual ethos is grounded in a profound sense of divine presence, emphasizing humility, community, and the pursuit of divine beauty.

Christian de Chergé (1937-1996) was a French Trappist monk who became the abbot of the Tibhirine monastery in Algeria. During his time there, he witnessed the complex realities of religious coexistence, political upheaval, and interfaith dialogue. His experiences during the Algerian Civil War, culminating in the tragic kidnapping and death of his fellow monks, deeply influenced his theological outlook, particularly his understanding of hope as an active, trusting response to uncertainty and suffering.

The Core of Christian de Chergé's Theology of Hope

Christian de Chergé's theology of hope is rooted in the Christian understanding of divine promises and the eschatological anticipation of God's Kingdom. Unlike superficial optimism, his hope is rooted in a deep trust in God's fidelity, even in the face of violence and death. His reflections draw heavily from monastic spirituality, biblical eschatology, and engagement with the realities of the world.

Key Principles of His Hope Theology

- Hope as Trust in Divine Promise: De Chergé believed that hope arises from trusting God's promises, especially the promise of eternal life and reconciliation. It's a confident expectation grounded in God's fidelity rather than mere wishful thinking.
- Hope as a Virtue and Moral Attitude: For de Chergé, hope is not passive but active; it sustains moral courage and perseverance in difficult circumstances.
- Hope and Inculturation: He emphasized the importance of contextual hope—recognizing the specific realities of a community or situation and responding with hope that is rooted in faith.
- Eschatological Orientation: His hope is ultimately eschatological, pointing toward the fulfillment of God's plan in the future, which shapes the present.

The Biblical Roots of His Hope

De Chergé's theology draws on biblical themes, especially:

- Romans 8:24-25: "For in hope we were saved. Now hope that is seen is not hope..."
- Revelation 21:1-4: The vision of a new heaven and new earth.
- The Psalms: Expressions of trust amid adversity.

He interprets these scriptures as affirmations that hope is an act of faith in God's ultimate victory over evil and death.

Hope as a Monastic Virtue

Within the monastic tradition, hope is intertwined with other virtues such as faith and charity. Christian de Chergé saw hope as essential for monastic perseverance, especially in contexts of persecution or conflict.

The Role of Hope in Monastic Life

- Sustaining Prayer and Community: Hope fuels the monastic commitment to prayer and community life, even when faced with hardship.
- Witnessing to the World: Monks are called to be witnesses of hope, embodying trust in divine providence.
- Preparation for the Kingdom: Hope guides monks in their daily routines as a foretaste of the heavenly kingdom.

Hope and the Cistercian Charism

The Cistercian emphasis on simplicity and divine beauty fosters a hope rooted in the search for divine presence in everyday life. Their contemplative practice nurtures patience and resilience, essential qualities for hope.

Christian de Chergé's Practical Reflection of Hope in a Violent World

The tragic events at Tibhirine, where seven monks were kidnapped and murdered, serve as a poignant case study of de Chergé's hope in action. His final writings and reflections reveal a hope that refuses despair and affirms trust in divine providence.

The "Come and See" Approach

De Chergé famously wrote, "Come and see," inviting others into the contemplative experience of divine presence amid suffering. This attitude reflects his hope—an openness to divine mystery even when human understanding falters.

Hope Amid Violence

- Active Nonviolence: His hope did not lead to passivity but to active engagement in peacebuilding and interfaith dialogue.
- Acceptance of Suffering: He believed suffering has redemptive potential when borne with hope and trust in divine plan.
- Witness to Resurrection: Even in death, his hope pointed toward the resurrection and the promise of eternal life.
